WHAT CONGRESS HAS BEEN DOING

Wilson Coming

Washington, D. C., May 8.—The Democratic politicians are sitting up and taking notice of Governor Woodrow Wilson's trip to the far west. A few months ago Gov. Harmon seemed to have the call on the nomination, but the tide is changing. Wilson seems to have run by the Buckeye man. Wilson's vigorous legislative policy and the much needed reforms which he has forced through an unwilling Legislature in the trust ridden state of New Jersey has marked him as a statesman of the highest order and as a presidential candidate of the highest availability. Keep your eyes on Wilson.

Gore to Encourage Poultry Raising

Senator Gore is following up his corn clubs with an effort to induce the boys of Oklahoma to engage in the poultry business and will follow that with an effort to interest them in hog raising and in dairying. Any farmer in Oklahoma desiring bulletins on the subject of corn, cotton, poultry, hogs, dairying or cattle can by dropping a postal card to Senator Gore at Washington obtain any and all of such bulletins.

House Making Progress

The Democratic House is making much progress in tariff legislation, while the Republican Senate is marking time. The House will pass a farmers' free list bill, which will greatly aid the farmers in the purchase of necessities, but this measure is sentenced to death, as it seems, in the high tariff Republican Senate.

Congressman Carter is on the ailing list, but still in the ring.

Senator Gore has taken up with the Department of State the matter of discrimination in tariff rates against American cotton seed oil by the Austrian government. He has requested the State Department to take action looking to the adjustment of the matter to the best interests of the cotton planters of Oklahoma.

Taft's Postal Commission, which was appointed to look into postal conditions, seems to have a life-size joker in it in the shape of Lawrence Maxwell, Taft's fellow-townsmen and attorney for the Adams and Southern Express Companies. With Mr. Maxwell as a member of this Commission it seems certain that the express companies will at least get a square deal.

Taft has fumbled the ball so badly that the hopes of the friends of his strenuous and strident predecessor have been revived, and it looks as though they will be active in their support of him against Taft for the 1912 nomination.

CHURCH DEDICATED AT NEW BETHEL

Yesterday the new Baptist church at New Bethel was dedicated. Fully 1,000 people attended the services and dinner was served on the ground. Rev. O. E. Fowler preached the sermon and was assisted by Rev. T. W. Smith of Egypt and Jim Shirley of onawa.

The New Bethel congregation has worked faithfully to build their new house, and are to be congratulated on the success that crowned their efforts.

DIAZ AGREES TO RESIGN

WHEN PEACE IS RESTORED WILL HAND OVER POWER TO ANOTHER

City of Mexico, May 7.—Gen. Porfirio Diaz tonight issued a manifesto to the people of Mexico, declaring his intention to resign the Presidency as soon as peace is restored. In this manner the President has virtually acceded to the demand of Francisco I. Madero that he make a public announcement of such intention.

As to when peace is actually restored, Gen. Diaz reserves the right to be the judge. In the words of the manifesto, it will be when his conscience tells him that he will not leave his country in anarchy.

The President declared that his determination not to relinquish the Presidency at this time was not due to vanity or love of power, because, as he pointed out, power at this time had no attraction, accompanied as it is by tremendous responsibility and worries. He said he was prompted solely by a desire to conserve the best interests of his country.

Says He Will Never Quit Under Compulsion

The President made it clear that he does not propose to abandon the Presidency while his country is at war, and that he would not do so at any time under compulsion.

President Diaz's manifesto will be made public tomorrow morning, but it will not be sent officially to Judge Carbajal for formal transmission to Dr. Vasquez Gomez. The promise of the President is made to the people of Mexico, and its receipt by the revolutionists will be incidental. That it will be sent to them immediately, however, by private individuals, and that it will be regarded as entirely satisfactory by them, is taken for granted.

Only in a general way does the manifesto refer to the revolution. The Government's position is that Gen. Diaz could not have made a public statement at an earlier moment, and it is indicated that the revolutionists failed to observe the amenities of the peace negotiations by making them public.

Declared Madero Betrays Agreement
Officially, it was stated tonight that Madero and his advisers were guilty of betraying an agreement by injecting into the conference either secretly or openly the question of the President's resignation. It was declared that it had been agreed to in conference that this point should not be permitted to become an issue.

Madero Stops Movements of His Troops: Says He Will Agree to Another Armistice.
El Paso, Texas, May 7.—Gen. Madero announced late tonight that he would agree to another armistice in which peace negotiations might be resumed.

Fearing complications with the United States, Francisco I. Madero Jr. has given orders to all revolutionists on the Mexican border to withdraw from the frontier. He, himself, being in the City of Mexico.

The movement of troops had begun when an Associated Press reporter telephoned the Madero headquarters and read the dispatch from the City of Mexico. Gen. Orozco received it and mounted his horse and galloped away with the news to the tent a mile away, where Gen. Madero retired for the night.

Miss Hazel Kenny left this morning for a visit to Hickory.

FOUR HURT IN RIOT

STREET CAR TROUBLES IN OKLAHOMA CITY CAUSED FIGHT.
HUBATKA INJURED

Oklahoma City, May 8.—Following a mass meeting of organized labor at the Auditorium Sunday morning, a crowd of over one thousand men blocked the street cars at Grand avenue and Broadway, and four men were injured, among them John Hubatka, chief of police. One shot was fired in the crowd.

George Martin, conductor, was arrested and lodged in the county jail, on a charge of criminal carelessness. Labor leaders declare that automobiles will be put in operation Monday morning over lines parallel to those of the Oklahoma Railway company. Street car service was given all of Sunday.

The trouble occurred soon after adjournment of a mass meeting called by representatives of organized labor in Oklahoma City.

The police chief and William Egbert, a union painter, who resides at 800 West Washington, were struck by Culbertson street car No. 37. The injuries sustained by Egbert and Hubatka are said to be of a very serious nature.

George Martin, conductor of the Culbertson car, was attacked by men of the crowd and bruised about the head.

Martin was arrested at 3:20 by Deputy Sheriff Fred Hagen at 611 North Ollie street, and was lodged in the county jail. He was charged with criminal carelessness.

Tom Davis, an electrician, who gave his address at 1114 West California, was shot in one of his fingers soon after the two men were struck by the Culbertson car. He said someone drew a gun in the crowd and exclaimed: "I will kill you," and that he grabbed the gun just as it was discharged.

The injury to Davis was not serious. Chief Hubatka was bruised about the head and shoulders.

By order of Mayor Lackey Sunday afternoon, twenty extra policemen reported for duty at 7 o'clock last night. A Belle Isle street car, carrying about thirty-five passengers was ditched between Sixteenth and Seventeenth streets at 8:30 last night. Pieces of stone had been placed on the track.

Service was delayed an hour and three boys were slightly injured.

Immediately after adjournment of the mass meeting the crowd formed a parade at the Auditorium. Four abreast, the men marched to the east in the center of Grand avenue. At Robinson avenue, an East Fourth street car was forced to stop on account of the crowd which blockaded the tracks. A small demonstration was made by the crowd, but upon the arrival of Sheriff Spain and deputies in an automobile, the tracks were cleared and the car permitted to move on. Several cars came and with little delay moved out. The crowd jeered the motormen and conductors, but no attempts were made to interfere with the service until Culbertson car came. This car came at a rapid speed. The trolley rope jumped the wire when it turned the corner. The crowd scrambled to get out of its way, and in an effort to clear the tracks, Chief Hubatka was struck, as was Egbert. This infuriated the crowd, several members of which made a mad rush for the operator of the car. Martin was badly beaten, but officers dispersed the crowd and took Martin to the police station. Martin was released by the police officers. Egbert was taken to the city dispensary, and Chief Hubatka to the office of Dr. J. F. Messenbaugh.

CONFEDERATES HOLD MEMORIAL SERVICE

Yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock the Confederates held their annual memorial service at the Methodist church. The camp met at the court house and marched in a body to the church.

Capt. W. L. Roddie delivered a short address in which he mentioned the causes that led up to the war and in which he eulogized Gen. W. L. Cabell, lately deceased. Rev. Leroy Anderson and Rev. E. M. Sweat followed with addresses appropriate to the occasion, and both speakers in eloquent terms spoke of the Confederate soldiers and the cause for which they fought.

The meeting closed with the hymn "My Country, 'Tis of Thee" and with prayer by Rev. W. J. Shipman.

THE MEXICAN MUDDLE

The Mexican situation is in a worse muddle than ever. Diaz clings to his office and hopes that something will turn up that will enable him to crush the revolution and make his supreme again. He is a grand old man and has done much for his country, and he may feel deeply the sting of its ingratitude, but that does not lessen the number and activity of his enemies. Even his capital is now threatened. His friends are deserting him and hastening to curry favor with the next master of the republic, and anarchy rules the country. The Latin-Americans are naturally an impetuous people and are easily led astray by demagogues and every time the country has been "liberated" it has been left in worse shape than before, except in the one instance of Diaz. Unless something little short of the miraculous occurs within the next few days, American intervention is inevitable and many valuable lives of American soldiers will be sacrificed in the endeavor to restore order. Under the new order of things Uncle Sam has become the policeman of the Western Hemisphere and this job will prove a big one.

The railroads are sometimes spoken of as soulless corporations, but an incident recently occurred in St.
 Louis that shows the Frisco management, at least, is made up of men who have not lost all their human sympathy. A train bringing 66 orphan children from New York to Texas, where homes had been found for them, was delayed for over an hour and the Frisco fast Texas train was Chinese Pheasants Increasing

Spokane, Wash., May 8.—While driving a passenger train at a 50-mile-an-hour clip over the Northern Pacific line from Ellensburg, Wash., to Spokane the other night, J. M.
 Gallaman, a locomotive engineer, captured a full-grown Chinese pheasant, which flew into the open cab and plumped against the back of his head.
 Gallaman was in the act of tying the string in his shoes when the gaudy bird, bewildered by the light in the cab from the stoke hole, landed on him and rolled to the floor.
 The bird was not injured and Gallaman brought it to Spokane. Pheasants have been protected in the state of Washington for several years and they are multiplying rapidly, especially in the eastern and central parts of the commonwealth. The state law prohibits killing the birds, but there is nothing in the code to prevent Gallaman from making a pet of the one he captured. He has given the pheasant a sunny corner in his room at a local hotel and has arranged with the maid to feed and water it during his absence from the city.

COMPANY WILL WORK

RAVIA GOLD FIELDS

Oklahoma City, Okla., May 8.—That the recently discovered deposit of gold-bearing ore near Ravia, Johnson county, is a paying proposition that will be developed appears from a permit to do business in the state granted to the Independent Mining & Lease company of Nevada by the secretary of state.

It was learned that the ore taken from a shaft sunk 150 feet has assayed from $3 to $5 a ton gold with a good showing of copper. The permit is for $50,000, which is slated will be expended entirely in development work. There is to be no sale of stock of any kind, it is said.

The independent company is a million-dollar corporation chartered under the laws of Nevada and holds the controlling interest in the great independent mine at Cripple Creek, Colo., which is valued at twelve million dollars. E. F. Stratton, a nephew of Winfield Scott Stratton, the original developer of the independent mine, is its president.

May Vote on Amendment Again

Guthrie, Okla., May 8.—On the general supposition that three times has a railroad constitutional amendment been defeated in Oklahoma because it applied to all transmission and transportation companies, plans are now in formation to again submit an amendment to the people and make it apply only to railroad companies, leaving the constitutional bars up against all other transmission and transportation concerns.

What is really wanted in Oklahoma is an amendment to Sec. 9, Art.
 9, of the Constitution which will permit railroads to build within the State and under State charter, to be merged with interstate lines if desired. The denial of this privilege, it is claimed, has cost the State many miles of new railroads since statehood. Heretofore, when an amendment was submitted, it has always been opposed and defeated, principally on the ground that it would apply to oil and gas pipe line companies and all other transmission and transportation companies. The amendment recently defeated at the polls will again be submitted, but to apply only to railroads.

A "GOOD MAN" WHO WENT YEARS BEFORE HIS TIME

William Allen White in the Emporia Gazette.

A few years ago there died in a Kansas town a man in his late forties who twenty years ago, was considered one of the coming men of the town. He was a mighty smart young man. He was too smart—that was the trouble. He thought he was smarter than the Lord. So he dabbled with the rules of the game. He put his toe over the dead line once or twice and it didn't fall off, so he thought that was easy and put his whole foot over. So he packed up and walked across. He did not drop dead. So he concluded that the Lord wasn't on his job. Of course, folks talked; but they said he was a smart fellow, an opinion which he shared himself. Prosperity smiled on him.
 He won every case he took. He was brilliant and industrious and had a way with him, and so his wife left him and the woman who thought she was going to get him found that he could fool the women as well as the Lord. And that affair was over. Of course, the church people and the goody-goodyies were excited; but who cares for them when the Lord isn't working? If the people of the town didn't like his gait, they could lump it, he said.

He was the best dressed man in town, and made connection with the fellows who did things in politics at Topeka. So when, by a combination in the county convention he got the nomination for the legislature, and took his oratory out on the school house circuit, he denounced the mudslingers and character assassins who were bringing up his old domestic trouble, and by weeping a few copious lines in the school houses, got the country vote, lost his own ward and went to the legislature. There he was "on the inside." He got on a good committee and was a leader of the group of politicians who put things through with a rush in the last end of the session. Thus he came to have a little reputation outside of his home county, and went into state politics. The Lord still seemed to be thinking of something else, and his scandal with the young woman who went down to Topeka from a neighboring town during the legislature, had begun to smell pretty rank.

And, some way the bright young man couldn't come to the next state convention except on a proxy, and he couldn't find even a proxy to get him into the convention after that. Moreover, most of his practice was in adjoining counties.

Some way, at home the juries refused to weep and his creditors annoyed him. He got interested in a number of stock propositions that didn't pan out, and sold out some of his friends. He acquired a bad reputation at the banks and changed bankers. He owed a lot of bills.

HER RICHES TOOK WINGS

—DYING A PAUPER

Chicago, May 8.—Mrs. Alice Webb Duke, former wife of Brodie L. Duke, the multi-millionaire tobacco king, and six years ago mistress of a fortune of nearly $25,000,000, is dying a pauper in the Illinois state hospital for the insane at Kankakee.

Before she was 20, she was one of the leading oil promoters of Texas.
 Her connection with the tobacco industry brought about her acquaintance with Brodie L. Duke, who already had been married twice and was the father of two grown daughters.

In November, 1905, she met Duke, the next month they were married clandestinely. On January 6, 1906, through the action of his brother, Benjamin Duke, president of the Tobacco Trust, president of the Tobacco Trust, the bridegroom was torn from the arms of his wife and committed to Bellevue. This drove his wife insane, it was charged.

around town and spots appeared on his fancy vests. But he was having a fine time and when business was dull he would go away—some said to Kansas City, other to St. Joe—and come back rather the worse for wear.
 After every big lawsuit he would lock himself in his office and corn up, and for a day or two would go about looking frowzy and bad; then take a brace, get hold of himself, buy some new clothes and, after having himself barked and massaged, he would appear on the streets looking as fair as a May morning; but he had a far-away look that made people distrust him. But he wasn't punished. The Lord apparently was not keeping books on him. It didn't seem to cost him much to lie to women; so he tried it on men and was known as a mighty slick proposition.
 He gave his note freely, kited his checks from bank to bank; kept within the law, and if a victim squirmed, the victim was told to test the matter in the courts.

And so the years wore on. Women couldn't fool him, so he did not marry; he knew when he was having a good time, and as passed his fortieth birthday his face grew hard, his eyes shifty and cruel, his hands a bit unsteady at times and his friends distrustful. They said he was smart as chain lightning and they had about the same feeling of security toward him that they had for chain lightning. For he was just as treacherous. He was endorsed for a high appointive office, but his old trouble came up and he was turned down.
 An equity in the best proposition he had went to satisfy a debt because he could not raise any money at either bank. He finally married and the town smiled, and his clothes wrinkled and bagged, and he shaved only twice a week. Then he grew cross and mean after his spree, and made enemies. He appeared more or less in police court lawsuits, and his out-of-the-county practice gradually dropped, for he was found once or twice on both sides of a lawsuit.

So, in the wagonette, riding to the graveyard, the pallbearers didn't really have much to say about him.
 Each was afraid to speak what was in his heart for fear the others would repeat it. They planted him both wide and deep, and rode home in a happy frame of mind, talking of something else. And when his estate was figured up it was found in the Big Book that he had neither friends nor a good name; that he died a stranger in a strange land, in the very town of his birth that he blackened whatever he touched; and that the only tears that were shed for him were by a woman who did not come to the funeral—his first wife, who remembered him in his youth, when he was clean and full of vision, before he said in his heart, "There is no God."

PROHIBITION AMENDMENT

MAY BE REFERRED

Oklahoma City, Okla., May 8.—Notice that a referendum vote would be asked upon the amendments to the prohibition law enacted by the Third Legislature was filed with Secretary of State Ben Harrison, late today, by J. M. Hayes of 791 East Villas street, Guthrie, former State enforcement officer and attorney. It is understood that petitions, duplicates of the printed form filed with the Secretary, are to be circulated during the remainder of the month, which is completed in accordance with the Murray act of the First Legislature, will suspend the prohibition amendments until a vote is had. Unless a special election is called this would mean no vote until November, 1912. It will require between 12,000 and 13,000 signatures to refer the act.

Among other things, the amendment would abolish the State and local dispensaries, the office of the State Enforcement Attorney, and revise the penalties, so that a person thrice convicted for violating the prohibition law would be given from one to five years in the penitentiary.
 It would also empower the Governor to appoint State enforcement officers, with powers of Sheriff, and in a modified form would authorize the removal of county officers failing to enforce the prohibition law.

The housewife will find more time to go about if she has electricity installed in her home, because she will be able to get her work done quicker and easier. For instance, all housewives know how much labor is lost in walking back and forth from the stove to change irons when it comes to ironing. The new way—the electric way—eliminates this. Your iron is always at your service by merely pressing a button. An even temperature, therefore better work.
 You can do your ironing wherever it is convenient—in the kitchen, sewing room, the porch in hot weather—wherever there is a light socket. You can also cook, bake, operate your sewing machine, your washing machine and light your home with this modern servant. Call and let us tell you more about it.

BANK COMMISSIONER TO WATCH GRAFTERS

Oklahoma has been a rich field for grafters of all kinds, especially the hawkers of stock in fake companies. To guard against the operations of these grafters J. D. Lankford, state bank commissioner, has taken steps to keep track of them, and has issued the following statement:

"To the People of Oklahoma. The State Banking Department has established a Bureau for the purpose of giving information as to the financial standing of companies whose stock is offered for sale to the people of our State. If you are offered any stock, and want information as to the financial standing of such companies, offering the same, before investing, please write this Department and I will furnish you all the information that I can obtain.

Conference Will Meet at Okla. City.

Nashville, Tenn., May 8.—It is officially announced tonight that Oklahoma City has been selected as the meeting place of the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, south, in 1914.

The special committee which had the meeting in hand was so notified today.

Oklahoma City was selected, it is said, because, in the opinion of the committee which visited the various cities, the matter of Western work needed the conference more than any territory under consideration.

Asylum Bids Returned Unopened

Okla. City, Okla., May 7.—Owing to the failure of the State to sell its public buildings bonds the State Board of Public Affairs did not open bids for the construction of a new building for the Vinita Insane Asylum Saturday.

All bids are to be returned unopened to the contractors, with the statement that the board will not let the contract until the money is in sight with which to do the work.

Chairman Lon Frame stated that the board has received assurances from citizens of Vinita that local banks and citizens will purchase enough of the bonds to take care of the building there. If this is done, the board will let the contract. Like assurances have come from citizens of Granite, Edmond and Norman, which were given appropriations by the last Legislature for public buildings for institutions located at those towns.

About the only means of securing the construction of State buildings provided for by the recent Legislature is for the local communities where the institutions provided for are located to secure purchasers for the bonds, as the bonds have found no sale on the leading bond markets of the country.

W. F. Perkinson, the new water-works superintendent, arrived today and is now a full fledged citizen of Ada.

Miss Bertha Gephart and Richard Ryan arrived from Hickory today and have enrolled in the normal.

A. J. Stevens, a gentleman of color, was brought in from Stonewall today by Deputy Jno. Kitchens, charged with violating the prohibition law. Not much peace for the bootlegger these days.

KICKER'S WRATH DISARMED

Answer of the Man on the Floor Above With Musical Daughters Was Enough.

"Once," said the flat dweller with musical daughters, "our neighbors living in the flat under us complained; the man of the house down there came up to see me about it.

"How do you suppose we can live down there," he said, "with your daughters forever pounding on the piano in minor, medium and major keys, but mostly in the major, and forever singing at all hours of the day and night songs that seem to be mostly in a high pitch? Your daughters are most estimable young ladies, both, I know, for I have seen them; but I wish you would come down into my flat some time and listen, listen, to that continuous pounding and singing. If it didn't drive you plumb out of your senses I miss my guess."

"My dear sir," I said to him, "I appreciate your situation, and I thank you for the candid but at the same time kindly courtesy with which you have stated your grievance, but consider."

"You," I said to him, "have between the music and yourself a floor and a ceiling, which must deaden the sound somewhat; but I have to sit here and hear it right in the same apartment with it."

"He understood; he knew that mine was the greater cross, and he looked at me sympathetically and went away quite mollified."

MOTHER-IN-LAW FOR HIRE

Real One Demanded Carriage, So Groom Rented Another and Got Himself Into Trouble.

In Marseilles the hire of a mother-in-law for a few hours is quoted at one shilling eight pence, which seems quite cheap. The parents of one of a future happy pair were separated. When asked to the wedding to give her consent, the future mother-in-law said: "I will go if a carriage is sent to fetch me; if not, I will stay at home." The carriage was promised, but the day and the hour came, and the carriage did not, and the future mother-in-law stayed at home. "Very well," said the bridegroom-to-be, when he saw that she was not turning up. "I will find another mother-in-law." So he went out into the street and found one for one shilling eight pence. She came to the wedding and duly gave away her "daughter," whom she had never in her life seen before, and the bridegroom and bride were made one.

But they let themselves in for more than they bargained for. A complaint has been lodged and the bride, bridegroom and witnesses are liable to severe penalties for procuring, aiding and abetting, impersonation, forgery in a public deed, and other crimes, while it seems likely that the marriage in French law is null and void, the consent of one of the parents having been given by a sham mother. The one shilling eight pence hired mother-in-law is being looked for by the police.—London Telegraph.

Temptation

Brewer shrugged his shoulders a little angrily, for the idle remark irritated him.

"It's so," persisted the speaker. "You've the best chance on earth to be dishonest if you wanted to; and never be suspected. Lucky for the banks—and lucky for you—that you're honest!"

The words repeated themselves in his mind as Brewer walked along. Crayfoot was right. Brewer, an expert man on safes, time and time again held the secrets of bank vaults in his mind, with no man to stop him should he choose to dispose of the night watchman and, opening those vaults, relock them after helping himself. It was indeed lucky that he was honest.

With the speculative smile still curving his lips he turned in at the Guthrie's house, springing up the steps with the eagerness which was always his when Gertrude Guthrie was near.

As she came toward him, smiling, Brewer thought again, as he had thought innumerable times before, how all things beautiful should be hers by right—beauty of surroundings, of garb, of jewels. That she should be wasted in obscurity seemed a crime—and the Guthrie family was in only moderate circumstances, with all the longing of those poor for generations for the power of wealth.

That evening he discovered that excitement swayed Gertrude's parents. Evans, the millionaire, had of late shown marked preference for Gertrude's society. So in her mother's heart a wild hope had sprung to life. Brewer, who always had been cordially welcomed before, felt a chill in the air.

"You forget," Gertrude's mother told her when she had promised Brewer that she would go with him to the theater the following evening, "you forget that Mr. Evans said he might call."

Brewer, watching the color come and go on the girl's face with a queer, choking sensation in his throat, knew that to Gertrude also Evans was a glittering prospect.

Walking slowly homeward, thinking it over, he could not blame her. With the possibility of losing her, desperation began to tinge his thoughts. He was still going over the same weary round mentally the following day as he worked on the time lock of the Eastern bank. Into his musings, clear and sharp like a stroke, floated Crayfoot's idle suggestion as to his chances to enrich himself.

His hands trembled as he worked on. Once or twice he glanced, half frightened, into the interior of the vault, where he had no right to go. Strange thoughts disturbed his brain and his lips tightened into a line as he planned—for it could do no harm to plan. It really was very simple. The only drawback was that eventually suspicion would narrow down to him. By then, however, he could have his plunder safely concealed. They could prove nothing and Gertrude would believe in him.

This thought brought the first chill, for how could he face her, she believing in him? He remembered her trustful eyes and breathed hard. Then he remembered Evans and again took up his planning with tightening lips.

There was a queer melody in his brain several nights later when he again sought Gertrude. He had a mad fancy that he could better crystallize his plans if he were in her presence and could hear her voice. Since temptation had beset him he had existed in a daze, thinking, planning, always planning.

His eyes were feverish as he bent toward the girl when conversation lagged. "Gertrude," he asked, huskily, "would you give up Evans—would you marry me if I had money—and could give you things?"

Startled, she looked at him and then she smiled, the half sad, tender smile women give those for whom they care in spite of all.

"But you'll never have money, Louis," she told him. "You are not one of the kind of men who get rich."

Brewer saw only the smile. "I shall be, I tell you!" he said. "And then—you'll marry me?" She drew back and her face whitened as her eyes searched his haggard face.

"No," she almost whispered, "no, because if you came to me with a fortune in your hands, Louis, I'd know that you hadn't got it honestly."

As Brewer gazed into her eyes he felt helplessly that they saw far down into the secret recesses of his soul, were reading the blackness of the thoughts there. He felt that she was shrinking from him in a dawning horror. His face dropped into his hands. It was as from a distance that he heard her breathe his name. "Louis," she said, haltingly. "I don't understand. Why should you so misjudge me? Why should a question of wealth enter into the subject of my—marrying you? If I cared, you know? Do you think so poorly of me as that?"

The man, raising his head, saw her breathless, flushed with the effort of her words, with that little smile of tenderness and self giving. A loathing of himself, of the sin that was seared on his soul, overwhelmed him, swept him out into the full current of life again.

"Oh," he breathed, as he bent over her hands, "Give me time! Give me a chance to show what I can be, Gertrude, with your help!"

SOROSIS PRIZE EQUALLY DIVIDED

Saturday afternoon the three city schools united in rendering a program at the city hall opera house, consisting of selections from the various programs rendered earlier in the week. The house was crowded with patrons and friends, all of whom were interested in the program as well as in the award of the prize of $5 offered by the Srosis club for the best kept school ground.

At the conclusion of the program short addresses were delivered by Mesdames A. H. Constant, D. Rushing and U. G. Winn, and the announcement made that the judges had found the north school and Willard school had tied and the prize was therefore divided equally between them. The money will be added to the library funds of the two schools.

This prize was given to a worthy cause and the News congratulates both the ladies and the schools on the work accomplished.

CONFEDERATE SONS BEGIN ORGANIZATION

Sunday afternoon a few sons of Confederate soldiers met at the court house and took the initial steps of organizing a camp of Sons of Veterans. W. W. Sledge was elected commander of the camp and Byron Norrell adjutant. Owing to the lack of time and the small attendance the matter of perfecting the organization was passed over until Wednesday night at which time a meeting will be held at the News office for the purpose of completing the organization and applying for a charter.

The veterans extended an invitation to the sons to meet with them every first Sunday afternoon, and the invitation was accepted.

Mrs. Spencer Discharged

Ada, Okla., May 7.—The examining trial of Mrs. George Spencer, charged with attempt to poison the family of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Will Spencer, at Rock, was held at Joiner before a Justice of the Peace, and the defendant was discharged. There was a large number of people in the court room and a demonstration of approval was given following the dismissal.
